

Northwest Ag Show Celebrates 46th Year With “Everything For Every Farmer Under One Roof”

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Sublimity, OR - “The Northwest Ag Show has become the hub for all-things-agriculture here in the northwest,” observed Amy Patrick, NW Ag Show Manager, “it’s the largest Ag show in the northwest, second-largest west of the Mississippi, with loads of farm equipment, supplies, services and products.”

The Northwest Ag Show runs January 27th - 29th at the Portland Expo Center. A new addition to the 2015 show is an FFA Supporter Reception on Tuesday evening. It will be held at 6 pm and there will be a silent auction and more FFA presentations.

Several business-building and certification-related seminars will again be held on-site at the show. With more than $40,000,000 of equipment at the show, there’s plenty to see and buy.

“There’s 245,000 square feet of indoor display space,” Patrick added, “from new innovative equipment and technologies to experts from every part of the Ag industry, vintage farm equipment and fun features like our Tasting Room area, it’s all here under one roof.”

January 27th is billed as “FFA Day” with the FFA equipment contest and passport program for FFA members. January 28th is “Family Day” where the entire family can get into the show on one $20 family ticket. January 29th, Thursday, parking is free and there’s a focus on small acreage farming with seminars in the morning and plenty of time to see the show afterwards.

All attendees of the various Grower’s Meetings enjoy free attendance to the show with their name badge.
